

LADS is celebrating its 80th birthday this year, and to mark the occasion, a full colour 80 page book has been produced telling its remarkable story ...

- ... how it went from using a WW2 Nissen hut to owning its own purpose-built theatre
- ... the trials and tribulations of leasing premises from the Church Army
- ... how the “legendary” pantomimes began
- ... how the Society might have folded after a disastrous fire.

There is also a complete list of every known LADS production – well over 250 of them!

People, plays and property form the backbone of the story, but there is also mention of programmes and posters, logos and lighting, tickets and turntables – and ghosts and jinxes.

Until 31 January 2019, this book can be ordered for £12-50, with free delivery in the Ledbury area (or if collected from the theatre). Posting outside the area is an extra £2. From 1 February, the cost will be £14-00 (plus £2 P&P if appropriate). Money – cash or cheque – with order is essential.
